

Icarus and Daedalus!

Daedalus and Icarus were two brothers.

They built a labyrinth to hide the minotaur so it wouldn't escape. The minotaur is half man half bull.

One day King Arthur put Daedalus and Icarus in jail. He put them in jail because they let a Minotaur go through.

Then they made wings to fly away from the jail. They made the wings out of feathers and wax.

Icarus flew with Daedalus out of the window and Daedalus made some rules. The rules were, do not fly too high to the sun and don't fly too low or the guards will get you. Then they flew away from the jail.

They wanted to go down to an island to live there, but Icarus flew up to the sun because seagulls were pecking him. Daedalus said to Icarus "don't fly too near the sun" but he did not listen to Daedalus. Icarus flew too near to the sun and the wax melted and he fell into the sea and drowned and died. Then Daedalus watched as he died.

Daedalus went back to his island, and he prayed to Icarus, "I hope you have a nice time in heaven," and he was downcast. Then Icarus came as a ghost from heaven Daedalus spotted Icarus in the corner and he was happy to see him. "Can you stay here?" asked Daedalus. One night Icarus went back to heaven.

Then Daedalus dived into a rock then died to see Icarus and they had a tea party in heaven and played games in his little cabin they had a special lunch the other day. Then they were wrestling each other they were still hungry so they ate the scraps of the food and thirsty so they drank coke.

By Tom!
